The genetic history of Europe since the Upper Paleolithic is inseparable from that of wider Western Eurasia. By about 50,000 years ago (50 ka) a basal West Eurasian lineage had emerged (alongside a separate East Asian lineage) out of the undifferentiated "non-African" lineage of 70 ka. The basal Western Eurasians were early exposed to significant Neanderthal admixture.

The genetic history of the current Italians is greatly influenced by geography and history. The ancestors of Italians are mostly Indo-Europeans, with particular reference to the Italic peoples, the most notable of them being the Latins, Umbrians, Sabines, Sicels and others. It is generally agreed that the invasions that followed for centuries the fall of the Roman Empire did not significantly ...
